LORDON, July 22.—The compromise of the Ireh Caurch Bill was the result of fear on the Ireh Caurch Bill was the result of fear on the part of the Peers of the consequences threatened by a collision of the two Houses of Parliament. Last night the Tory Lords held is large meeting at a private residence and resolved to repudiate the Maquals of Salisbury and put themselves under the lead of Lord Cairas. The latter was authorized to make peace with the ministry and express the whilingness of the Peers to yield. Lord Cairas sought an interview with Earl Granville and gave in the submission of the Peers, whereupon the Cabhari agreed to the compromise amounced last night.

Lordon, July EL—There was a full stiendance of members and speciators in the House of Commons this evening. When Mr. Oladstone rose to speak he was greeted with great obsering. Under a heavy sense of responsibility, but with profound satisfaction, he moved that the House agree to the amendments heavily of the called attention to the excision from the preamble of the words spectying appropriation of the surplus, but as the point was better indicated in the bill he thought it would be invidious and unnecessary to require a theoretical and shatured, declaration in preamble. The reinsertion of the date of 1971 was not a token of yletory, but an indication of joint and earmonious working of the two houses. He reviewed other amendments which had met with objections, and said the substance of the Government's proposals had remained virtually unaltered. He saked the house to diseard every word that might have been untered tending to embitter the question, and apologised for any warmth that he might have shown. He congrainlated the house on the satisfactory settlement which had been arrived at, and presided the ability and moderation with which debates had been conducted by Earl Grandille and the course which had been that God would append her in her new career.

Sir Roundell Palmer, member for Richmond, approved the course which had been taken. It was honorable and fair to both sides. The thought the compromise was substantially a concession to the Church, and took on the satisfactory settlement was only a doubtful advantage and might result in disasters and differenties. Compromise was not unconditional surrender. The most oscential points in the amendments had seen the second

It is claimed that Mr. Wing's personal possissity will make him votes over and above the actual Regublican poll. It is claimed that the speich of Mr. Wadsworth will said to the Republican poll. Now we believe nothing of the kind. Mr. Wing as a candidate for office, and Mr. Wag as a private individual are not the same characters at all, and there is nothing either in his address or in the address of Mr. Wadsworth which may not be found in the mass of the better class of Republican speeches and addresses. Our readers have had an opportunity of permaing both of them in these columns, and can judge for themselves.

The Democratic nominee for State Treasurer is a gentleman as deserving of personal consideration as any Kentuchian, and, in a public way, he commands our suffrages, being the representative of the Democratic party, by whom he was once trumphantly elected and a ascopat time nominated by acciamation, an honor which he deserved and which was freely conferred upon him.

We must not allow his majority to be stinted. He is in every way qualified. His integrity, excellent judgment, attention to business, amiskillity of character, all.

Mr. Wadsworth undertakes to contrast the reflections ten or even five beist years age, if the voice of an oracle had told him of the position he would appeal to his cold associates to raily.

We must not allow his majority to be stinted. He is in every way qualified. His integrity, croellens judgment, attention to business, amiability of character, all recommend him to the confidence of the people. But buside these, the claims which belong peculiarly to himself, there are the claims of party organization and party spirit to be answered, and the answer should be full and distinct. It should cheer the Democrate of Ohio. It should cheer the Democrate of Penasylvania. It should say to the party North and South, "Kentucky is all right."

We do most sincerely urgs upon Democrate the duty of giving Mr. Tate a rousing majority. In doing so they will say in so many words to the Radicals, "Trot out way fill beat way and the state of worse torture. With a distinct knowledge that this, unless prevented by some unforceseen interposition, would be the result, and with more than a willingness, indeed with an anxious dealer, that it should be, the Radicals remoratelessly pressed their sgoinaively sectional tacket, gloating at the thought of the awful consequences which they forces, and which might have been prevented by the election of Bell or Douglas or indeed of any candidate not the avowed representative and the mere representative of a section. The Last Leaders Sensation.

One of the London theaters is playing an extraordinary drama, the seams of which is laid in America during the late war. This play is cutilized "Edendale." The plot appears to be this: Edendale is a Virgiolan existe, owned by one Col. Vandeleur, a Southern gentleman, whose dampters Ade, the Juste of the play, finds her Romeo in Esmond Fairholt, an officer in the United states army. Edendale is first exhibited while peace yet provails, and the course of true love between Ada and Fairholt is running smoothly enough. Then comes the news of the situate upon Fort Sunter. Fairholt has to job the forces of the North, and to take arms against the Vandeleurs and the South. The lovers, parted under these painful circumstances, do not ment again until Edendale has been rawaged by war and the Confederate came has suffered terribly. Ada hardens her heart against her lover, and holds him in detestation as one of the oppressors of her county. Col. Vandeleur is killed in action and his son is taken prisoner. An interval of eighteen months separates the events of the Scendale field. (!) He restores the estate to Mrs. Vandeleur the generous conquerer, and he carriain fulli upon her complete reconculation with form capilerity. Utilization and his non her complete reconciliation with cured, and sexual excesses are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. The or-gans of generation, when in period health, make th e man. Although Munich, within the last thirty, years, has more than doubled in extent, the new quarters being found outside the lines of the old walls, there seems to be no check to its nonthined advances, and new buildings are in progress on every side. The ex-King, by his love of ark and his teste for pointing, exploring and exchingers. his love of art and his lasts for painting, coulying, and arabitations, all of which he encouraged most liberally, attested artists from all parts of the world to the city, which he has made in point of architectural embellahment and art collections to rank with the great capitals of Europe. His son has followed the wise anample of the father, and has already completed some of the finest improvements, while others are in contemplation to be entered upon and pushed forward as the finesce of the kinedon will prevais.
